NANCY TOWER as our Keynote Speaker

Many of you know Nancy Tower, but since she's "gone underground" as she puts it for the last year or so - I'll reintroduce you to her.

Nancy Tower is the wife of Ron Tower from Sulphur. They have been married for more than 30 years in total (I'll let her explain that) 😊. She is proud to share that she has one step-son, two daughters and six grandchildren.

Nancy graduated from Sulphur High School and McNeese. She started her career right down the road from us at the Sulphur McDonalds in 1982 and to this date people still remember the birthday parties that she would host for kids at that store. Of course, that was just the beginning - her resume is vast and rather comical, so I'll let her tell you more about it. She did recently retire from Sasol North America where she worked for 23 years as the communications manager, also assuming the training manager's role in 2005. She served on our own Sulphur City Council from 2005 to 2010 and she has volunteered for more local and statewide organizations than I could count on my fingers and toes - so we won't try to go through them now.

According to Nancy, the most important thing in her life is her faith and she's going to share some empowering words with us about Vision.

Shell Chemical Breaks Ground On Major Louisiana Expansion

- In Ascension Parish, $717 million project will create world's largest single-site production of alpha olefins

GEISMAR, La. - Today, Gov. John Bel Edwards and Shell Chemical LP officials highlighted the beginning of construction for the company's $717 million linear alpha olefins manufacturing plant in Geismar. LED Secretary Don Pierson joined company executives - including Shell Americas Vice President of Manufacturing Aamir Farid; Shell Chemical General Manager of Higher Olefins/Derivatives Rutger Beelaerts; and Shell Geismar General Manager Rhoman Hardy - along with U.S. Rep. Garret Graves and Ascension Parish President Kenny Matassa in a groundbreaking ceremony at the company's Ashland Belle-Helene reception center.

The project will make Shell Chemical's Geismar location the largest single-site producer of alpha olefins in the world. In addition, the Shell Chemical project will retain 650 existing jobs in Geismar; create 20 new direct jobs with an average annual salary of $104,000, plus benefits; and result in an estimated 93 new indirect jobs, for a total of more than 110 new jobs in the Capital Region and surrounding areas.

Gov. Edwards said, "We are proud of Louisiana's status as one of the world's great markets for the petrochemical industry. Shell Chemical is one of our most important economic driver companies, and we salute them for recognizing Louisiana as the most competitive location for expanding their production with this next-generation investment. We look forward to continued success for Shell Chemical and for the many hard-working Louisiana employees who contribute to that success. Their families will benefit, as will Ascension Parish and surrounding communities. This is a great win for our state."

The three-year project will culminate with Shell Chemical beginning operation of the new manufacturing plant in early 2018. The company has selected Baton Rouge-based Turner Industries as its general construction contractor. At peak building activity, the project is expected to generate 1,500 construction jobs.

"We're excited to be formally breaking ground for the AO-4 expansion, a project that will reinforce Shell Geismar's position as a key contributor to the economic vitality of our region and our state," said Rhoman Hardy, Shell Geismar general manager. "We'd like to express our appreciation to the Louisiana Department of Economic Development for their invaluable assistance in making the AO-4 project a reality."

The new manufacturing plant will produce intermediate chemicals that are crucial for a variety of consumer and industrial products, including packaging plastics, synthetic lubricants, drilling fluids and household detergents. Capacity of the linear alpha olefins unit will be 425 kilotons per year, and the new plant will be the fourth alpha olefins production plant on the 800-acre site, where Shell Chemical has operated since 1967.

"Ascension Parish is at the intersection of sustained economic development and the highest quality of life for Louisiana families," Ascension Parish President Kenny Matassa said. "We are proud that Shell Chemical continues to invest in Ascension Parish, and we look forward to many more years of fruitful collaboration."

"We are very appreciative of Shell Chemical's continual investment in Ascension Parish," said President and CEO Mike Eades of the Ascension Economic Development Corporation. "Today's announcement is a testament to the quality of our workforce and the excellent business climate in our parish."

LED began discussing a potential project with the company in November 2013. To secure the project, the state offered a competitive incentive package that includes the comprehensive solutions of LED FastStart® - the nation's No. 1 state workforce development program. In addition, the company is expected to utilize Louisiana's Enterprise Zone and Industrial Tax Exemption programs.

"BRAC congratulates Shell on its expansion and global leadership in production of alpha olefins," said President and CEO Adam Knapp of the Baton Rouge Area Chamber. "Not only does this expansion create direct, high-wage positions at Shell, but it also provides a significant number of jobs for our region's leading industrial contractors, representing significant economic opportunity."
